

Disclaimer and Privacy Policy

Disclaimer

The material and information on this site was created by Liles Parker, PLLC (Liles Parker) and does not constitute legal advice. Although we strive to ensure that the content on the site is accurate and current, no user should rely on or act or refrain from acting on the basis of information provided via the Liles Parker site without first seeking appropriate professional counsel. Liles Parker makes no representations or warranties with respect to any information, material or graphics on this site.

Your use of the site does not create an attorney-client relationship with Liles Parker, nor does such use constitute the receipt of legal advice from the firm. You should not send any confidential information to the firm until you have received written agreement from the firm to perform the legal services you request. If you receive such an agreement, please consider using secure means to send sensitive or confidential information.

Liles Parker is not willing to assume representation of clients from those states or jurisdictions in which this website does not comply with all laws and ethical rules of that state or jurisdiction.

This site may contain links to other sites on the World Wide Web. These links are provided for your convenience and are not endorsements of any products or services on such sites. No information in other web sites has been endorsed or approved by Liles Parker.

Privacy Policy

This privacy policy applies to this website and to all other websites on the World Wide Web operated by Liles Parker.

We take the security of your data seriously. However, no data transmission can be guaranteed to be 100% secure. Therefore, we cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us. You transmit information at your own risk.

Liles Parker reserves the right to use the information that you supply us for marketing purposes. The firm also collects information to the extent that your web browser provides information to our web server, such as you Internet protocol address, the site you linked from, the identity of your Internet Service Provider, and the type of browser you are using.